Exhibition & Sponsorship Opportunities

Welcome to EUCROF26: A Premier Gathering for Clinical Research Professionals

Join us from February 1-3, 2026, in the vibrant city of Amsterdam, The Netherlands, for the 2026 European Clinical Research Conference (EUCROF26). Following the resounding success of the EUCROF25 Conference in Copenhagen, we are excited to continue this tradition, offering a dynamic platform for industry professionals to converge, collaborate, and catalyse advancements in clinical research.

Welcoming nearly 350 professionals from almost 200 different organisations, EUCROF25 provided a dynamic platform for industry professionals to converge, collaborate, and catalyse advancements in clinical research. With a meticulously designed Conference programme, the event attracted attendees from the full range of regulatory and clinical research disciplines. Regulators, regulatory policy, clinical operations and monitoring, clinical trial technologies, quality assurance, data management, sites, patient groups as well as academics, as well as more specialised professionals, such as paediatrics and medical devices experts, were drawn to the conference.

Building on this momentum, EUCROF26 aims to further enrich the dialogue and cooperation across the spectrum of clinical research sectors. This includes pharmaceuticals, biotechnology, medical devices, clinical research organisations (CROs), technology providers, regulatory bodies, patient advocacy groups, and academia. Our comprehensive programme is meticulously curated to address the multifaceted nature of clinical research in a European context, covering essential topics such as regulatory changes, clinical trial technologies, quality assurance, data management, and patient-centric approaches.

EUCROF26 is not just a conference; it is a crucial intersection of theory and practice, offering an extensive array of presentations, expert panel discussions and breakout sessions. These are designed to reflect the current state of clinical research while also exploring the pressing challenges and exciting opportunities that lie ahead.
